PATENT INFORMATION:

A patent application was filed in May of 2021 and is in patent pending status.

SUMMARY:

Ms. Campbell's bakeware is designed to provide individuals the ability to not only bake food but also cover and protect it from insects and rodents. This bakeware set provides convenience without the added fuss and decreases the waste of often-used items for cover such as foil and plastic wrap.

The idea came about when Ms. Campbell was unable to find similar items for purchase last year during the holidays.

So she then began to think she couldn't be the only one who wishes there were products like this out there.

The bakeware set is made with an aluminum base with a depth of 3 inches, One more inch deeper than your average bakeware to provide the preparer more room for ingredients. Attached on the sides is your 2-in-1 lid latch and handle. You're able to snap on and off your lid to store your food as well as use the latch-like handles to transport bakeware around. To cover bakeware are the silicone covers provided with each one. You're able to snap them onto the bakeware and provide additional protection when storing with the lid latch. On top of the silicone tops will be your month and date dials to turn and adjust to date your food when storing. The bakeware set is a 20 pc set containing round and square colorful baking pans with matching silicone lids. Your standard sizes are provided but with an additional inch of depth.
